

Marc Fischer is Senior Vice President and Director of Management Services for Transwestern. Marc supervises Transwestern's property management operation in Greater Baltimore and the Washington suburbs of Maryland – a portfolio of more than 16 million square feet. Marc and his team specialize in taking over failing properties for institutional owners and individual investors, strengthening property management and maintenance programs, improving tenant relations, and increasing value for the ownership entity in the medium to long term.

Marc is an active member of BOMA Baltimore, IREM, and the CCIM Institute, and he is a past president of BOMA Baltimore. He is also the principal author to three books: Guide to Developing a Standard Operating Procedure Manual, BOMA International Guide to Exterior Maintenance Management, and Foundations of Real Estate Management textbook.

Marc earned a BBA in management and an MBA in management and organizational behavior, both from the Sellinger School of Business and Management at Loyola College in Maryland.
